

Video and Website Disclaimer

The information on this website (the "Website") and in the multimedia presentation(s) ("presentation") is a service made available by LifeQuest of Arkansas, its partners, affiliates or subsidiaries ("Provider"). This Website provides general information only, and does not provide professional advice of any type. We recommend you consult a licensed professional if you want professional advice.

No professional or confidential relationship exists or will be formed between you and Provider or any of our volunteers or representatives.

The information contained in the website and presentation represents the views and opinions of the original creators of such presentation and do not necessarily represent the views or opinions of LifeQuest of Arkansas. The mere appearance of the presentation online does not constitute an endorsement by LifeQuest of Arkansas of the contents of the presentation.

The website and presentation have been made available for informational and educational purposes only. LifeQuest of Arkansas does not make any representation or warranties with respect to the accuracy, applicability, or completeness of the contents thereof.

The website and presentation are not intended to be a substitute for any professional advice from any licensed professional. LifeQuest of Arkansas disclaims any and all liability to any party for any direct, indirect, implied, punitive, special, incidental, or other consequential damages arising directly or indirectly from any use of the website and/or presentation, which is provided as is, and without warranties.